

Problem|Statement

College freshmen struggle with the change, they used to wake up when their parents told them to. This can lead to missed deadlines and a long struggle to catch up to missing work. I aim to design an app that can help students keep better track of their deadlines and helps them better navigate through their college life without stressing about when they need to find time.